MERCHANTS HOLD MEETING TO ADJUST INSURANCE

Water, Wires and Fire Department Subject of Many Warm Speeches

The Merchants' Association held a spirited meeting last night in Pulse hall to discuss fire insurance conditions in Richmond and see what, if any, steps could be taken to obtain better rates from the Board of Underwriters.

L. Garfinkle was made chairman of the meeting and J. F. Galvin secretary.

Chief Le Moine of the fire department stated that he had been largely instrumental in having a call made for such a meeting, for the reason that he was continually being asked questions relative to conditions which he could not answer. He invited close inspection of the fire department and asked for a committee to look into all matters which needed attention, which were many.

The chair called upon many present for remarks touching the general subject, and to these requests Messrs. Lunceford, Owens, Temple, Beck, Ronce, Crary, Hulaniski and others responded, and a crossfire of questions and answers and oratorical pyrotechnics followed which was worth while, interesting and instructive.

All agreed that insurance rates were abnormally high and that something ought to be done toward getting them reduced, and Fire Chief Le Moine gave some valuable suggestions as to this.

The News editor suggested that a good, strong committee be appointed, and that committee go before the city council and ask that the water company be made to supply more water to Richmond for fire protection, and then when that had been accomplished something could be done, maybe, with the insurance people.

This drew the fire of Louie Farrell of the water company, and he and this scribe had more fun than a box of monkeys for a while, all good naturedly, of course, as both are good scouts and warm personal friends.

The chair announced that he desired to appoint a representative committee and one that would serve, and accomplish something, and asked for volunteers, but nobody volunteered worth a cent, so the chair finally pressed the following into service as committeemen and got them to promise to do the best they could to bring about better conditions as to insurance rates, fire protection, more water, etc.

On water and insurance adjustment: Spiersch, Farrell, Champion, Lunceford, Owens, Renwick and Hulaniski.

On wires, electric signs, fire limits, fire department, garages, etc.: Crary, Beck, Stiefvater, Pulse, Eisenberg, Ford, Walker, Galvin and Silva.

The following special committee on rates was named: Messrs. Dutlow, Dilley, Schumacher, Nystrom and Goodwin.

These committees will meet at an early date, appoint chairmen and get down to business, and there is no doubt they can bring about considerable good for the general public benefit.

After the meeting Chief Lemoin sent in an alarm from Ninth and Bissell, box 321, as a test.

The firemen had out 200 feet of hose and water through it in 3 minutes and 10 seconds from the time they left the house.

DINNER POSTPONED.

The dinner planned by the Wesley Methodist church ladies for Washington's birthday has been postponed, owing to the fact that the ladies have arranged to serve the Merchants' banquet at the Richmond club on the 21st.

MAIL CLOSED TO LIQUOR ADVERTISERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The Senate today unanimously adopted the Jones amendment to the postoffice bill, denying the mails to newspapers and other publications containing liquor advertising, when destined for prohibition territory.

A fine of $1000 or two years imprisonment, or both, is provided for violation.

S. F. BROKE FAITH ON THE NAVAL BASE FIGHT

Charging that the San Francisco supervisors have broken the gentlemen's agreement, whereby the various claimants for favor in the matter of the placing of the naval base agreed not to mage any attempt to influence the Washington authorities, commercial and civic bodies of Alameda are preparing to combat attempts to lobby in favor of Hunters Point.

Headed by Mayor Rolph, a delegation of the San Francisco supervisors will go to Washington to lobby for Hunters Point. The east bay people declare that this is a breach of faith and that it comes as a complete surprise in view of the agreement referred to.

Congressman Elston will watch the San Francisco delegation at Washington, and if necessary the east bay people will send a committee to the capital.

KATHLYN WILLIAMS IN REDEEMING LOVE TODAY

RAVEN-HUGHES PRELIMINARY.

The Raven-Hughes preliminary trial, on the charge of conspiracy in connection with the Pullman sewer assessments, has gone over until Monday next. It is said that the prosecution introduced some very strong evidence yesterday.

Both made of love—one inconceivable

ANTI-SALOON PETITION WILL BE OUT TODAY

The referendum petition of the W. C. T. U. and the Welfare League, looking to radical reforms in the conduct of the Richmond saloons, will be out today for signatures.

That is the statement made last evening by Mrs. Clara Wilson, president of the W. C. T. U.

"It makes no difference," said Mrs Wilson, "whether the saloon interests file their petition or not. I have been told they have sufficient names to file their petition. We are not concerned with whether they have or not. We will go ahead with ours, and the four propositions we make will be on the ballot at the regular city election in April"

Attorney Windrim for the saloon men states that they have between 800 and 900 names to the referendum calling for the rescinding of the glass front ordinance. He takes the position that glass fronts will leave the way open for children to peer into saloons.

RED MEN COMPLIMENTED.

The "Insignia," a publication devoted to the order of Red Men, complimented Oneta lodge of Richmond in the February number for breaking all records in membership increase.

Have you read the advertisement of Slattery Bros and Max Chinitz of the Richmond Free Market today? No? Well, read it on page 3.

DR. BLAKE PRISON OCULIST

Health Officer Blake, the well known local oculist, has been appointed visiting oculist for San Quentin prison by Warden Johnson. The position was formerly held by a San Francisco physician. Dr. Blake made his first inspection yesterday and will visit the prison weekly.

LOCAL BOWLERS ROLL HIGH BANQUET SCORES

The second annual banquet of the Richmond Bowling Association was held last night at the Tivoli, Otto Keller serving up a fine spread. President J. G. Calloway of the association was the toastmaster, and he called upon several for short talks, the trend of which was that Richmond would turn out a bowling team that could beat the world.

When it came to going after the eats, every man present made a "strike." Following is a list of those who sat down to the table:

THE CHARITY BALL.

Tickets for the Charity Ball are going rapidly, and it seems a certainty now that the entire output will be sold. This means that the $1000 mark set by the committee will be reached. The money is to be turned over to the local charity organizations. Everything has been donated—music, printing, anvertising and all the other things that generally cost money, so that every dollar taken in will be net.

NEAR-PEACE RELATIONS STRETCHED TO THE LIMIT

Two Nations Getting Nearer to Open Hostilities—Arms for Merchant Ships Asked

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Near-peaceful relations with Germany and the Teutonic allies were stretched to the snapping point today when this government received positive confirmation of the ominous report carried in United Press dispatches from Berne that Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium, had been forced to lower the Stars and Stripes from the United States legation in Brussels.

This confirmation brought Germany and the United States admittedly nearer to open hostilities than any event since President Wilson broke off diplomatic relations with the kaiser more than a week ago.

Officials observed the act, in the light of reports they have, as constituting a possible open affront.

INVESTIGATING SINKING.

ROME, Feb. 15.—American Consul Walter Treadwell was en route to Cagliari, Sardinia, today, presumably under orders from Washington, to investigate the exact circumstances for the sinking of the American schooner Lyman M. Law by a Teutonic submarine.

Particularly important, in the view of officials here, is official information whether the U-boat was an Austrian or German craft.

The information transmitted to Treadwell here from the British consul at Cagliari was that the submarine stood off near the Lyman M. Law on guard while the Law's crew of ten—eight of them Americans, took to their lifeboats.

PARTY TO MRS. CAESAR.

A number of friends of Mrs. W. J. Caesar tendered her a surprise Valentine party at the ball room in the Edenia apartments Monday evening. The hall was prettily decorated with hearts. Mrs. Caesar was invited to the Felch apartments to see some fancy work, and later coaxed into the ball room to hear a selection on the piano. The surprise was complete and the affair proved most enjoyable. The doctor was in on the play, but he was discreetly silent.

Former Water Commissioner Charles Blanchard took out a license in Oakland yesterday to wed Mrs. Mary Gilligan, a wealthy widow.

WOULD ARM OUR MERCHANT SHIPS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Representative Gardner of Massachusetts today called upon the government to furnish armament for American merchant ships. He declared that if armament is not given American merchant fleets then the navy department should furnish convoys. Gardner denounced William Jennings Bryan for conducting a campaign that appeals to the cowardice which lurks in every man's breast—a cowardice which is the result of the strongest of human instincts, the instinct of self-preservation.

The Massachusetts representative attacked Representative Moore, also a Republican of Pennsylvania, who recently declared "British coloring of the news is responsible for the warlike spirit against Germany." He scathingly attacked Germany for its unheard-of barbarity and frightfulness toward non-combatants.

LOOKS SUSPICIOUS.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—Warning against the dual menace of German submarine activity in American waters and against German peace propaganda, which may be in reality a play for time, is being sounded today by American officials conversant with the real situation in Berlin. Germany's attempt to negotiate the issue of her unlimited submarine order through the Swiss legation at Washington while Ambassador Gerard was still in Berlin, is regarded with suspicion by these officials. The move is frankly viewed as an attempt to forestall action by President Wilson until Germany can make such disposition of her submarines as will enable her best to strike at America in case of war.

$150,000 FROM CHARLIE CHAPLIN TO WAR FUND

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Charlie Chaplin, American's movie star, is a $150,000 contributor to England's "win the war" loan, subscriptions which are closing today. The man whose movie antics have brought him a fortune, cabled his subscriptions from Los Angeles today, it was announced.

Editorial Comment

SAN FRANCISCO MAGDALENS

Last evening's papers contain long articles on the higera of fallen woman from the heretofore tenderloin district of San Francisco, and it was sad reading. The problem is a deep one, and one that has never been solved yet.

A Richmond man, prone to Socialism, has made several efforts to open this question for debate in these columns, but we have refrained from it for the reason that it is hardly the sort of problem that one can go into details on in a paper that goes into the family and is read by the boys and girls. Our friend claims the question is purely one of economic conditions, and that the evil will never be remedied until the conditions which create it are remedied.

We think he is mistaken in that view, for while admitting that economic conditions are anything but what they should be, those who are forced by them into lives of shame are in a great minority.

With the advertising pages of all city papers filled to overflow for women wanted at a fair wage to do general housework, there is no excuse for them to go to hell via the white light route, or redlight route, either, or any other route.

The trouble is with the woman vastly more than with the economic conditions surrounding her. There are many exceptions to the rule, of course, but the rule holds good, just the same, and we are speakng of them as a whole.

The fact is that such women are not normal, any more than a dope fiend, drunkard or sneak-thief is normal. They are abnormal, and as abnormal human beings they should be taken hold of and handled by the state. The police and social working societies have grappled with the problem for a hundred years, and have got no further toward its solution than they were at the beginning.

The dope fiend, inebriate and criminal are all taken care of by the state, and the fallen woman should be handled the same way. Everything else has been tried and failed. A prostitute is a law-breaker, and as such should be arrested and confined in a proper institution provided for that especial purpose. It should be on a farm and have pleasant surroundings, and she should be made to sew and do such work as she can do, and that work can make the institution self-sustaining. Also, she should be paid a small wage while there, and when her term expires, or she is paroled, that wage should be paid her, and every effort made to help her get a position or work of some kind, somewhere. Then if she again breaks the law, she should be treated just exactly like any other person who breaks the law.

In that institution should be the best and most competent physicians, skilled in handling the mental and physical ailments of these women, for nearly every one of them is off wrong more or less mentally. They are not of sound mind, but are abnormal and unbalanced.

If you were to take ten of them at random into your homes tomorrow and seek to reform them, nine out of the ten would backslide at the first good opportunity. All beautiful theories of reform and highbrow stuff fails when applied to actual test with the average "Hooker." The sob squad means well, but lacks worldly experience.

Nearly two thousand of these women were turned adrift from their usual haunts in San Francisco yesterday, and it was pitiful. They hape scattered all over the city and state, and are still the same today as they were yesterday, or any other day. None of them applied for help to the associations doing social welfare work, and none of them, as far as known, have applied for work.

One great step in the right direction toward helping to solve this problem of the Magdalen will be made when saloons and the liquor traffic are abolished, and the quicker that is done the better, not only for weak women, but for all mankind.

Now, he slow, unmoving finger of shame points to them, wherever they flee, and the State Legislature should grapple with the problem and set an example worthy of emulation all over the United States.

Create a home for her to whom Christ said: "Go, and sin no more."

One senator has a bill up which prohibits school pupils from dressing extravayantly or ostentatiously. How nice! Now we are to be told what we can wear, as well as what we can do and cannot do. Wonder if the baby's cloth must be folden square or on the bias? Law is law and must and shall be obeyed. And, as Vanderbilt said, "The people be damned."

The tariff schedule to be revised by Congress has not one single item in it protecting the consumer. He is robbed at every turn of the road, from start to finish, and then sandbagged and biffed with a yard of lead pipe.

Manna or gaz is a white glutinous substance popularly identified with the manna of the Scriptures, which is found upon the branches and leaves of trees in Persia, particularly of the tamarisk, where it is said to be deposited by a small, pale green insect. SYNOPSIS

Roberta, an orphan, half French, half American, starting for America to stay with an uncle, meets Count de Lasselles crossing to secure mules for France.

By a mistake, Roberta's uncle believes she is a nephew. Knowing him to be a woman hater, Roberta adopts man's attire.

Her uncle, General Carruthers, informs his supposed nephew that he needs his knowledge of French to straighten out a deal for providing mules for France. The governor's honor is involved in the mule deal.

Roberta pledges her aid and is introduced to Governor Faulkner and to his private secretary, Buzz Glendenning.

Mrs. Jeff Whitworth is deep in the mule scheme with her husband and endeavoring to get the governor's signature to the transaction.

The governor gives a dinner to Roberta, who has been made private secretary pro tem. She matches her wits against Mrs. Whitworth.

"Come in, Buzz, dear," called that beautiful Madam Whitworth as in one small instant she changed both her position with arms on my shoulder and her countenance of anger and anxiety. She was a very wise and beautiful and much experienced woman, was that Madam Whitworth, but she had given to me, unlessoned as I was in the art of politics, the fact that I most wanted: that the two papers containing the specifications concerning the mules had been mistranslated by her.

"Put a shawl around you, Madam Pat, and come out here to the street a minute to see what is going to happen to the Prince of Carruthers," said my rescuer as he inserted his head into the room for one little minute and beckoned us to follow him.

And what did I find out there upon that street?

I then experienced a surprise that gave to me a very great pleasure and which made my heart to expand until it almost burst the restraint of that towel of the bath under the bag of my brown cheriot coat. Before the door of the house of the beautiful Madam Whitworth stood the gray racing car of my Buzz, and before it stood a slim car of a similar make, only it was of the darkest amethyst that seemed to be almost a black, while behind it stood one of equal if not superior elegance of shape which had the beautiful blackness of jet. That was not all. Across the street stood also a car of a golden brown and to the front of it one of the red of a very dark cherry.

"There you are," said my Buzz, with a wave of his hand. "Pick one, with the compliments of the general. I think the amethyst is a jewel."

"Oh, it is not possible to me to accept a present of such delight from my good uncle, the General Robert. I must go to him and say that I am not worthy!" I exclaimed, with a large faltering in my voice.

"All right. Just jump into the one you like best and drive on down to the Old Hickory club and say it to him. Sorry that you can't come along, Mrs. Pat, but that glad rag you've got on is too great a beauty with which to appear in public. Better take it into the house before you catch a cold in this breeze."

"Yes, I must run in," answered Madam Whitworth, with a slight shivering in her gown of great thinness. "They are perfectly wonderful, boy, and I say choose the brown darling."

"Governor Bill picked the cherry from the catalogue for us day before yesterday, but I think the amethyst has got it beat," answered my Buzz as he started toward his own car. "Jump into your choice and lead me on down to hear you refuse it to old forty-two centimeter. And, mind, I have arranged a little dinner for you tonight."

Then without further remark I followed him down the steps and got into that car which was the color of the heart of the cherry, and I raced that Mr. Bumblebee through the city of Hayesville in a manner which put to flight a large population thereof.

I had not had my hands on the wheel of a racing car for the many months since my father in his had left the small Pierre and Nannette and me weeping on the terrace of the Chateau de Grez when he went to the battlefield of the Marne, and I drove with all of that accumulated fury within me.

And this is what my uncle, the General Robert, answered to me as I told him of my unworthiness of his gift of the most beautiful cherry car:

"That is a just return for your consideration for me in being born a boy, and I hope you'll break the necks of about two dozen young females in this town before the week's out. Begin on that baggage, Susan, right away." And as he spoke my uncle, the General Robert, came down the steps of the great club of Old Hickory with the Gouverneur Faulkner and stood beside my Cherry with me.

"He's no better man than I, general, and I've been trying it all year," answered my Buzz, with one of those delectable grinnings upon his face.

"Indeed, my much loved Uncle Robert, it is impossible that I accept your gift in gratitude that I am not a woman, because for the good reason"—and my honor was about to rise up in arms and betray the daredevil and her schemes within me when that good and most beloved Gouverneur Faulkner interrupted me by stepping into the cherry beside me with a laugh.

"Thank you, general. This is just what I need in all of my business with Robert. We'll be back in time to dine with you at 7 here at the club. Go out to the West End, Robert." And with his hand on the spark he started the cherry, and I was forced to sweep away from my Buzz and my uncle, the General Robert, into the traffic and away from the club of Old Hickory, which is named for a very great general of America and is a club of much fashion and some bad behavior, my Buzz has said to me.

"I really didn't mean to kilnap you and the car, youngster, but I've had a pain under my left pocket all day and I have got to operate on it. A sudden impulse told me that it would be easier if I took you with me to—to sort of stand by," said my beautiful Gouverneur Faulkner in a grave tone of voice as I whirled him out the broad avenue that led to the west end of the city.

"Oh, my Gouverneur Faulkner, is it that you are ill, perhaps to die by a knife?" I exclaimed, and for a second I let that wild cherry run in a very dangerous manner almost upon another large car in the act of turning into the street.

"No, not that, Robert," he answered me quickly, and he laid his hand on my arm beside him for an instant as if to give a steadiness to me. "I want you to take me out to the state prison. I want to talk face to face with a man who killed his own brother in cold blood, it is said. A pretty powerful influence is at me day and night for a reprieve, and I—I don't know what to do about it. It is a difficult case. If I went in my official capacity to see the man it might give his friends undue hopes, and suddenly I felt that I could run away from the whole bunch at this hour of the day and see the man himself without anybody's knowing it save the superintendent of the prison and myself. You don't count, because in this case you are myself."

"Always I would be yourself to you, my reverenced Gouverneur Faulkner," I made reply to him as I raised my eyes to his deep ones that smiled down into them.

"I wonder if that is as good as it sounds, boy?" asked my Gouverneur Faulkner gently as he looked down at me with both a laugh and a sadness influencing the smile of his mouth. "Sometimes I badly need two of myself. They are at me from waking to sleeping, and I often feel cut into little bits and I can't even say so. In fact, youngster, I'm squealing to you more than I've let myself do since I became the chief executive of this state of Harpoth. Now, turn off into this road and go straight ahead. The prison is about a mile back there at the foot of that hill."

"I—I like those squeals," I answered to his smile as I put my cherry against the spring wind and raced down that long road at a great speed that prevented any more conversation at that moment. My pride bade me show to that gouverneur of Harpoth what good driving in a fine car I was able to accomplish.

AN INJUSTICE TO WAGEWORKERS

Compulsory Physical Examination to Aid Efficiency.

INVADES PERSONAL LIFE

Weeding Out of Men Not Perfect Bodily Would Put an Added Strain on Those Who Passed the Test—Idea Intolerable From the Humane Standpoint.

By JOHN P. WHITE,
President United Mine Workers.

Compulsory physical examination, whether of employees in industry or of any other class of citizens, involves an interference with the personal life of the individual so serious that it should be undertaken only on the assurance that the public welfare demands it and that the results are worth the sacrifice of that personal sanctity which our institutions have thrown about the individual.

This, in my judgment, is another way of saying that the state, not the employer, should undertake such examination, assuming always that public policy demands compulsory examination at all. I am not prepared to admit even this.

Compulsory physical examination is being urged only for wage earners. The reason is not far to seek. For the disinterested physician or scientist it is a short cut to remedying a condition which is due to the fact that wages are too low to permit wage earners, as a class, to spare the means for doing what otherwise they would voluntarily do and without prompting from any authority—that is, to consult the physician as frequently as necessary.

If we are to assume that insufficient wages and the ignorance and helplessness attendant on low wages are to remain with us always, then we could proceed with a program of paternalism and justify it. The fear of organized labor and lovers of human freedom generally is that low wages will become so buttressed by remedial measures of this sort that the public conscience will be dulled into an acceptance of low wages as a permanent institution.

Of course in some occupations, such as that of locomotive engineer, certain physical tests are so necessary on the ground of public safety that no objection can be raised. But with industry organized for private profit the weeding out of men not physically perfect by physical examination means only that those who pass the test will be subjected to greater strain than previously. The late Professor Hoxie of Chicago university, after conducting a thorough investigation of scientific management, expressed the opinion that the greatest danger now threatening the American wage earner is the speeding up of industry and the consequent physical strain imposed upon the worker.

If Professor Hoxie and other economists and students of industrial problems are correct, as I believe they are, then we must regard the entrance of a number of physically unfit men into industry as a blessing if it serves to check the tendency toward more speed and greater strain.

As modern industries are organized today, the rejection of unfit men means not the protection of those who are accepted, but license to increase the strain upon them so that eventually they, too, or their descendants, will be added to the class of the unfit.

"They will scrap the whole human race if they keep on," said Andrew Furuseth in referring to the increase in efficiency devices, so called. We are in great danger of losing entirely the human equation in industry and with it the freedom of the individual. This is not only inhuman and intolerable from a humane standpoint, but it is not efficient. Human nature is too complex to measure men with a yardstick. Some of the greatest inventors and mechanics, not to mention statesmen and even soldiers, have been men who could never have passed the rigid physical tests imposed by some of our modern industrial corporations whose managers have gone mad over efficiency.

If physical examination of all persons is demanded on the broad ground of social welfare, then let it be administered by the state.

Better still, let our scientists and wise men cease regarding the great mass of workers as densely ignorant and hopeless wards, over whom they must watch and care. Let them instead join with organized labor in demanding a fair wage and then, take my word for it, the very men for whom they are now so solicitous will be found taking the best care of themselves.

It is certainly putting the cart before the horse to demand the weeding out of all save the physically perfect while at the same time we permit low wages and poverty to continue to make physical fitness difficult or impossible to achieve.

LIVE LOCAL LACONICS WITH SANDPAPER EDGES

By the OLD MAN.

Richmond has three state officials, Lane at Napa, Galvin at Ukiah and Blake at San Quentin. They all show up at their official posts frequently, but all have been able to get out again—so far. Dr. Blake is going to make the 2500 inmates of the big prison see straight, while the warden makes them walk straight.

LaMoine's are holding a one-cent sale at both their drug stores, whereby you buy something and then get it duplicated for one cent additional. Following out the scheme to its logical conclusion, we offered to buy out one of their stores, pay another cent and they throw in the other, but this little scheme of high finance did not work. They turned it down, not being good sports.

◆◆

We have had Mr. Herman Stroele frame two fine pictures, which have been pinned up on the sanctum wall, one of President Wilson, and the other a pen sketch of the head of Christ in prayer, by Frank Bowen, conductor on the Twenty-third street line. We prize them both very highly, especially the latter, which is one of the finest bits of work of the kind we ever saw.

The high school annex is fast nearing completion and looms up big and substantial. The continued demand for more and more school facilities demonstrates how fast Richmond is growing. Richmond has many large industries, but none more important than its infant industry.

More and more houses are being built out 23rd street way. Next thing we know apartment houses and stores will be crowding up against our 2x4 ranch and we will have to move further out and take up another homestead away from the honk and roar and buzz and whoop of traffic and business.

The carpenters had a fine time night before last at Labor Temple, after regular meeting, eating hot dogs and other indigestibles, playing cards and swapping yarns. SOMETHING TO CROW ABOUT.

I noticed an ad. in another paper about quackless ducks, and was going to say something about crowless roosters. But I have changed my mind. In the window of Smith & Crane's store are two of the biggest roosters I ever saw. And they are not crowless by a long shot. They are dressed in "Can't Bust 'em" overalls and the sign says, "Something to crow about."

A prize will be given to anyone who guesses the number of grains of corn which these two birds will consume between now and Saturday night. Free guess to all. Come on, you poultry raisers. Here's your chance. I add this. Women see the value of overalls nowadays, judging from the pictures which come from the war zone.

"MISS CIVILIZATION" AT HIGH SCHOOL

An interesting and somewhat unusual entertainment is to be given at the high school this evening, when students in the various departments will presetn a program in the assembly. The four numbers to be offered are as follows:

"Miss Civilization,"
One-act Comedy, by Richard Harding Davis.

People in the play:
Alice Gardiner (daughter of James K. Gardiner, president of the L. I. & W. Railroad.... Wilma Miller
"Uncle" Joseph Hatch, alias "Gentleman Joe" .....Ervin Barr
"Buck" Meakin, alias "Ready, the Kid" .....Elmer Christian
Harry Hayes, alias "Grand Stand" Harry .....Richard Maxwell
Captain Lucas, chief of police.....
....Leo Viano
Policemen, etc.

Scene: Dining room in the home of James K. Gardiner.

Time: The day after Christmas, near midnight.

Vocal duet, "Greeting" (Mendelssohn ....Edna Inman, Verna Scott
Violin selection, "I Would That My Love" (Mendelssohn) .....
Violins—Arenah Hayes, Irene Lucas, Mary Ferrasci, Mary Gately, Berenice Woods.
Piano—Eva Lynn Hayes.
Cartoons, "As Others See Us" .....
....Students of the drawing classes

The students regret very much that the high school assembly is not large enough to permit them to invite the public to this entertainment. The enrollment of the school is now of such a size that the students nearly fill the hall, consequently this courtesy cannot be extended. It is expected that the auditorium in the new building will be large enough to obviate this difficulty.

AT THE POINT THEATER TODAY.

"Tangled Hearts," a two-reel drama, will be the feature at the Point theater today. There will be a comedy film also, "Billy Van Deusen, Coal Man," and another fine reel, "The Girl and the Game." Every youngster under 12 who cuts the coupon out of the News will be admitted free when accompanied by their parents, on Wednesday and Saturday.

LET MAYERS DO IT.
Mayers' American Cleaning and Dyeing establishment at 1116 Macdonald avenue is so well known in Richmond for many years past that it is probably needless to say that it is the leader in this line of business in this city. If you want your old suit to be made to look like new, let Mayers do it. That's his business and he knows how. Incidentally, he doesn't charge but very little.
